Cllr Steve Curran, Leader of Hounslow Council

“The Barratt London development is the new centre piece of Hounslow Town Centre and will definitely put Hounslow on the map. I believe it has truly transformed the high street from a residential, business and retail perspective.”

Caterina Polidoro, Director at tp bennett

“The design at every stage, has been influenced by the borough’s diverse cultural context. Urban spaces are shaped around local requirements for popular festivals and sporting events, with a variety of patterns influenced by the ethnic backgrounds of local communities embedded into the urban fabric of the scheme.”

Priti Vilankar and Akshay Rani, residents at High Street Quarter

“We love Hounslow, it’s a great place to live and it’s so convenient, everything is on your doorstep and you can get into central London easily. When we were looking for somewhere to buy, we wanted to live on the high street, both me and my husband were born in Mumbai, India, and when we’re not working we love to socialise with our friends so having a cinema along with superb cafes and restaurants seconds away suits the way we like to live. It’s such a connected location, and I never have to worry about being unprepared, if a friend announces they are popping by, I can run to the supermarket and buy cake.”
